

50 YEARS

Contra Costa
SENIOR LEGAL SERVICES

ANNUAL REPORT

FISCAL YEAR
2025-2026

LEGAL ADVOCACY IS ESSENTIAL

AGING SHOULD NOT MEAN LOSING CONTROL OF YOUR LIFE OR YOUR FUTURE.

Fifty years ago, a few brave people started a movement. They didn't know the scale of the task, only that justice for seniors demanded it. This year we celebrate them. But we can't rest.

Rights don't enforce themselves. When housing, financial security, or personal safety is threatened, legal advocacy makes the difference between a right on paper and a protection that works in real life.

THE CHALLENGE

THE CHALLENGE

THE NUMBER OF SENIORS IN CONTRA COSTA KEEPS GROWING*

...WHILE NEARLY EVERY SOURCE OF PUBLIC FUNDING FOR THEIR LEGAL ADVOCACY IS SHRINKING

If Contra Costa Senior Legal Services didn't exist, would we have the courage to build it today? And how many seniors would we be willing to leave without an advocate? Today we can help fewer than one in five seniors who need us.

Calls rose 59% in fiscal year 25-26. Our capacity only grew by 1%. We answered 22,595 calls this year. Many of these seniors got what they needed through advice or one of our 2,200 referrals to partners. But taking on a case means an attorney's time, and that's the one thing we can't stretch.

The next 50 years must look different from the last 50. No senior should be left at risk. When you support CCSLS, you help put an advocate in their corner.

WHAT YOUR GIFT MAKES POSSIBLE

We never know what the next phone call will bring, or what the next case will cost. On any given day, we might hear from someone whose landlord filed a case he had no right to bring, someone whose benefits quietly disappeared, or someone whose savings walked out the door with a stranger on the phone.

Our attorneys answer the need. Free of charge.

Your gift allows our attorneys to protect seniors' safety and stability. To everyone who donated, sponsored and volunteered: Thank you.

Contra Costa County Aging & Adult Services (2026), based on California Department of Finance projections: 310,794 residents are 60 or older, with a projected 21% increase from 2026 to 2035.*

Our estimates. Applying the Legal Services Corporation's 2022 Justice Gap study (NORC at the University of Chicago) to the approximately 23,000 Contra Costa seniors below 125% of the federal poverty level, roughly 7,800 low-income seniors face a life-altering civil legal problem each year; we provided direct legal services to 847 in FY 2025–26.*

DEFENDING SENIOR RIGHTS FOR 50 YEARS

TIMELINE: 1976 - TODAY

TIMELINE: 1976 - TODAY

"I've been an attorney for 46 years. And one of the best things that I ever did was get involved with the Senior Paralegal Project."

STEVE HENDERSON
CONTRA COSTA SENIOR LEGAL SERVICES' FIRST STAFF ATTORNEY AND AN EARLY BOARD MEMBER

1975

Congress adds legal services to the Older Americans Act, first passed in 1965.

1976

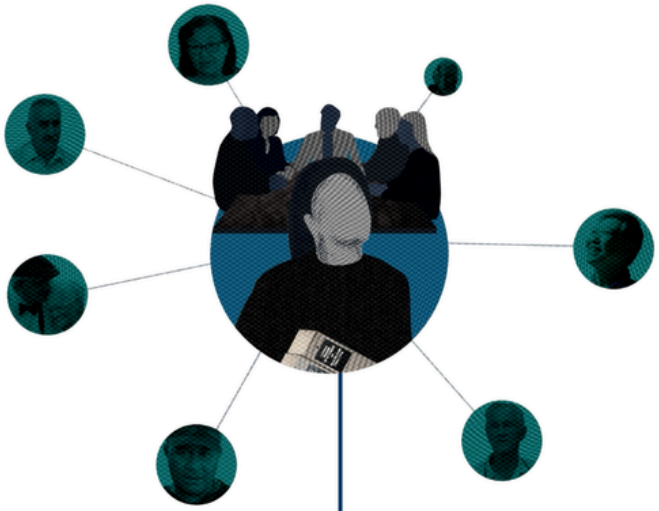
Our organization begins as the Senior Paralegal Project, which pairs trained paralegals with supervising attorneys to bring free legal help to Contra Costa seniors.

1995

The project becomes a nonprofit, Contra Costa Legal Assistance for the Elderly, with its first staff attorney and board of directors.

OVER THE YEARS

Services grow to include tenant rights, consumer protection, and elder abuse, alongside education on benefits and advance planning.



2014

We settle into a permanent home in Concord.

2023

The annual budget passes $1 million for the first time.

2026

Fifty years of legal advocacy for seniors. A statewide coalition, a new strategic plan, and the work carried forward.

1996

A new name: Contra Costa Senior Legal Services.

2020

Through the pandemic, we move presentations, client meetings, and court appearances online, without a pause in service.

2025-2026

We served 4,430 seniors this fiscal year, making it our highest number of seniors served on record.

“Two or three people made this decision, and now we carry it forward. There are more of us now, but the problem is also way bigger, so there's more to carry.”

MATTHEW HULSE
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

HONORED AT 50

As we marked our 50th birthday, leaders at every level of government recognized five decades of service to Contra Costa's seniors. Thank you to everyone who stood with us.

BUILDING BRIDGES

"The revival of statewide coordination among senior legal services providers was long overdue... The California Senior Legal Aid Coalition fills an important need in the aging and legal services network."

BUILT BY MANY HANDS

No one person, and no one organization, has ever carried this work alone. For fifty years, Contra Costa Senior Legal Services has been handed from one group of attorneys, volunteers, staff and board members to the next, each adding to what the last built.

This year we thank the board members who carried us here, and welcome Laurel Brady, Peggy Bristol, Jen Guglielmi, Doug Housman, Chris Schweickert, and Michael Volan as they join us for what comes next.

Caring for seniors isn't the job of one agency. It belongs to all of us: neighbors, families, partners, and public officials. The pages that follow show what happens when a community decides to take that on together.

STRONGER TOGETHER, STATEWIDE

No single organization can meet the legal needs of California's growing senior population.

This year, Contra Costa Senior Legal Services helped bring together 15 senior-serving legal aid organizations to form the California Senior Legal Aid Coalition, working with OneJustice.

Together, we share what works, speak with one voice on policy, and build funding strategies none of us could pursue alone.

IN 2024

Together, coalition members reached 60,000+ seniors and caregivers and closed 22,703 cases.

IN 2025–26

The new coalition brought together 15 organizations, with founding support from the May & Stanley Smith Charitable Trust.

By holding its first statewide convening, the coalition laid the groundwork for shared messaging and joint funding efforts in estate planning and scam prevention.

SINCE JULY

The coalition drafted a shared messaging framework for senior legal aid, while also documenting the decades-long erosion of Older Americans Act legal funding.

"The coalition has become a forum where we can collectively address the systemic roadblocks each organization has been grappling with individually. This cohort truly gives me hope for a brighter future for older adults in California."

WHERE HEALTH AND LAW MEET

Legal and health problems often arrive together, like when an eviction worsens a chronic illness or a lost benefit interrupts care. We are working toward a medical-legal partnership in Contra Costa County. This year we interviewed providers with partnership experience to learn what works, and engaged Thred Partners to map where need is greatest. Our goal is to reach seniors where they already go for medical care, before a legal problem becomes a crisis.

This work was made possible by Supervisor Ken Carlson's District IV Community Impact Fund.

BUILDING THE BENCH

When the nonprofits around us grow stronger, so does the safety net our seniors rely on. In March, Contra Costa Senior Legal Services convened the Nonprofit Board & Community Partnership Fair at Contra Costa College, building on a board training we hosted in 2023. More than 300 residents and nonprofit leaders came together. Supervisor John Gioia welcomed the crowd, and prospective board members met nonprofits face-to-face in rounds of "board speed dating." Workshops on board service, fundraising, and financial oversight followed.

With thanks to the Board Builders, Melanin Unlimited, and Contra Costa College.

In 2025–2026, our staff and board built the 2026–2029 Strategic Plan.

In July, we began putting it to work.

We represented Rodney, a 62-year-old disabled senior who was born and raised in Richmond. When Rodney faced eviction, he first tried to represent himself in court, but he could not manage the case on his own and received a continuance. CCSLS then stepped in as Rodney's attorney.

Without CCSLS representation, Rodney could have become homeless. We prepared a reasonable accommodation request, appeared in court on his behalf, and negotiated a move-out agreement. Through that agreement, we discharged over $18,000 in potential debt and secured extra time for Rodney to find a new place to live.

CLIENT SPOTLIGHT:

We represented a client who needed a restraining order to protect them from abuse in their own home. Without CCSLS representation, they would have continued living in fear in their home and may ultimately have been forced to move.

We advised the client on the law, prepared and filed their petition, and appeared at their court hearing to argue for the restraining order. The court granted the client a 5-year restraining order and ordered the person abusing them to permanently move out of the home. With the order in place, the client was able to return to living peacefully in their home without fear of further abuse.

CLIENT SPOTLIGHT:

We helped this client after their Supplemental Security Income (SSI) was terminated over an alleged excess in countable resources. CCSLS advised them on the law and on how to submit a request for reconsideration, based on Social Security guidance that excludes pandemic-related stimulus payments. Social Security reinstated their benefits, along with retroactive payments. The client told us they were extremely grateful for CCSLS's help, and that without legal help, they would have been in a life-threatening situation.
